NEW EXEMPTIONS CITED IN REPUBLICAN VICTORY

HARRISBURG July 8 (AP) — The Republican House, after months of controversy, passed a one percent sales tax bill tonight. The vote was 106-96.

The action sent the bill to the Senate, which promised speedy action on it.

The bill as finally revised carried exemptions for food, clothing, shoes, restaurant meals and products already taxed by the State such as liquor, beer, gasoline and cigarettes.

The tax was estimated to produce 125 million dollars in the 1953-55 biennium.

The climax of six months of controversy over taxes came quickly. The Republican House caucus decided at an afternoon closed session to revive the sales tax bill, which was rejected by a roll call vote on June 10.

THE HOUSE was called immediately into session after the caucus broke up. The Republican majority at once made official the caucus action, pushing the bill to a vote again.

The only Republican to vote against the sales tax was Rep. Henry E. Ragot (Northampton). The Democratic minority voted solidly against it.

The 106 votes for the sales tax represented a margin of only one vote above the constitutional majority of 105 votes necessary to pass a bill.

Three Democrats were absent. They were Reps. Harry Cochran (Fayette), William B. Curwood (Luzerne) and Susie Monroe (Philadelphia).

Republican absentees were Reps. John H. Light (Lebanon) and August Metz Jr. (Pike).

WITH THE six-months tax deadline finally broken, the Assembly set its sights for a final adjournment of the 1953 session on July 17. The sales tax, earmarked for education, is for two years only.

Rep. Albert W. Johnson, Republican floor leader, said before the roll call: "I feel that today will be a great day of triumph for the Republican party."

Rep. H. G. Andrews, Democratic floor leader, made the only comment in debate.

"I agree with the majority leader (Johnson) that there is no reason for oratory at this time. I want to congratulate the leadership of this House and the majority side for performance that, from their standpoint, has been too long delayed."

"However, the delay has not been without reward as far as the general public is concerned."

ANDREWS said he referred to cutting the yield of the sales tax. (Continued on Page Eight)

Burglars Are Foiled During Break-In Try

Burglars who would have been disappointed anyway were foiled by police early this morning.

Patrolman John G. Paretto and Howard C. Smoyer were checking the rear of the C. C. Bickel garage, East High street and Moser road, when they saw shuffling northeast of the building shaking.

They stopped the patrol car and pursued the person or persons in the bushes. They scoured the entire area but found no one.

Then they went back to the building and checked a door on the north end. The pins were out of the door and the upper part of the door was pulled out. There were pry marks on the door from top to bottom and around the lock.

The owner called police and told them the door led only to an empty boiler room.

'Ghosts' of the Past

Surrounded by "ghosts" in the cellar of borough hall, William Shaeffer, borough secretary, just sits comfortably back and thumbs through some of the town's records that date back to 1815. The book the secretary is reading contains the minutes of the first council meeting held here. In this book you'll find that it's illegal to drive a stagecoach down a High street sidewalk. And remember: ignorance of the law is no excuse.

EARLY COUNCIL RECORDS SHOW:

50-Cent Fines, Bathing Bans

By MERCURY STAFF WRITER NORMAND POIRIER

There are ghosts cooped up in a stuffy little room in the cellar of borough hall. Some say that on a quiet night when the wind is still, you can hear them wailing and moaning. But you can do better than that. You can get a personal introduction to them through Billy Shaeffer, borough secretary and keeper of the shades.

He'll take you down the cellar, open a door to a little room and unlock a steel vault. Then he'll leave you alone and in the quiet you can get as well acquainted with these filmy fellows as you think is wise.

IN THIS vault, in worn and tattered leather bindings, on the yellowed rough paper of another era, are the records of what men were doing in Pottstown almost 150 years ago.

The earliest records date back to 1815 when the West was the Mississippi river.

These are the first minutes of the going on at council meetings in those days.

And when you thumb through them — deciphering a handsome penmanship that is fast fading — the councilmen and burgesses and the mores of those "ancient" times come to life.

AND IT'S no wonder that their ghosts are moaning these days when they have to stand idly by and watch some of the things that are going on.

For instance, in 1840 the council passed a law forbidding swimming in the Schuylkill or the Manatwiny. The ordinance began, "Whereas great annoyance has been occasioned by persons bathing in the day time and exposing their persons detrimental to the morals of said borough."

Imagine how they feel when they see the two-piece jobs that are uniform-of-the-day at high noon these Summers.

But if you still think you'd like to go back to the old days where the pace was slower and the living easier take a look at some of these laws.

IN 1815, the council tried to legislate against chimney fires. Anybody whose chimney caught fire was fined one dollar. You'd think that having the fire would be bad enough in itself.

And present councilmen take note: in 1817, an ordinance was passed whereby a councilman failing to attend a meeting was fined one dollar.

The councilmen used to meet at inns in those days. They first met at Sam Smith's inn in 1815. There's no way of knowing what they ate or drank (if anything) but their first bill was 50 cents.

The very first ordinance ever passed in Pottstown was on May 17, 1815, and concerned hiring a surveyor to lay out the boundary lines. He was paid $3 a day.

Pre-Induction Exams Set

Twenty-nine Pottstown area men will take pre-induction physical examinations Wednesday. It was announced yesterday by Local Board 110.

The men will leave borough hall by chartered bus for Schuylkill arsenal, Philadelphia. The 29 do not represent the July draft call. The local board has not yet received its July quota.

2 Delegates to Represent VFW at Convention

Two delegates will represent Pottstown Post 780, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the opening of the Pennsylvania department convention in Philadelphia beginning today.

Earl Antrim and Stuart Fichtel will attend the convention for the borough post at the opening session this morning.

The convention will continue through Saturday. Delegates from all State posts are expected to attend.

The national convention will take place in Milwaukee, Wis., next month. Post 780 expects to send delegates to the national convocation.

WEIR charged the veteran justice with oppression and violation of his civil liberties.

The Limerick man pointed out Jamison violated the Sixth amendment of the Constitution, which guarantees a just and speedy trial.

The case will be heard by the judges en banc (all judges of the court) in September.

WEIR WAS arrested this past June 29 on a warrant issued by Jamison and taken to his office by two troopers from the Jeffersonville State police barracks.

In the petition he sets forth the following facts pertaining to the arrest:

1. Petitioner was arrested on a warrant issued by the said justice of the peace, on the evening of June 29, 1953 on a charge of violation of the Motor Vehicle code.

2. Petitioner was brought before the said justice on the same evening, and tried to post cash bail and have the case docketed for a de novo (judges sitting without jury) hearing before the court. Posting of bail was refused in an abusive manner by the justice.

3. Justice became abusive and petitioner requested his Constitutional right to engage legal counsel. Petitioner's request was flatly refused by the justice, who advised petitioner he could either pay the fine or send for counsel from jail.

4. Petitioner then said he would pay fine, but only under protest. Petitioner was advised no protest would be tolerated.

5. Justice advised petitioner no hearing would be given, that none was even given in such cases, and that for "getting so —" (Continued on Page Twelve)

What may be a homing pigeon that reached the wrong home arrived yesterday afternoon at the front door of Calvin Spitzer, Pottstown Star Route.

Spitzer said the pigeon, which flew up to the screen door, had a crippled leg. It looked like an ordinary pigeon, he said, but on one of its legs was a band with the inscription, AUSA3LPC700.

He's keeping it in a cage in his house, hoping somebody will tell him in what home the pigeon belongs.

TO HOUSE the families attending the annual events, institute dormitories will be used, as well as hundreds of family tents.

The conference had purchased a huge Army tent, expecting to use it as the main auditorium, but tests proved that it would not stand up under the weight of water from a heavy rain, so it has been abandoned. The big tent used the past year will be used instead.

The encampment begins tonight with a song serenade and "get-together" program.

Tomorrow, there will be morning prayer meetings and preaching service, with family "home and health meetings" in the afternoon.

In the evening, Elder Wagner, Elder Wagner reported, but ner will be the main speaker.

Union Approves Agreement With Doehler-Jarvis

Doehler-Jarvis division's supplemental agreement with the union has been ratified, with workers approving it in all plants except Pottstown.

This was announced yesterday by Howard W. Bartholomew, Pottstown plant manager, after management here had received complete returns from the division's headquarters in Toledo, Ohio.

The total vote among four plants was: Yes, 2875; No, 1887.

The vote at the Pottstown plant, reported by Robert Diener, election committee chairman of Local 1056, United Auto Workers (CIO), was: Yes, 113; No, 842.

The four-point agreement was reached by union and management representatives who met in Toledo over the weekend of June 26-29. Leonard A. Keffler, Local 1056 president, led the four-man union delegation from Pottstown to the sessions.

THE AGREEMENT will run for two years. It supplements the five-year contract expiring in 1955.

Keffler said the major benefit is an increase of pension maximums. The new plan will not be tied to Social Security benefits. Doehler workers' pensions will be figured on the basis of $1.75 per month per year of service, up to 30 years.

In addition, the present 24-cent cost of living allowance will be continued, with a 19-cent "floor" put under the allowance, so that it will not drop more than 5 cents an hour no matter how low the cost of living might go.

There will be an increase in the annual "improvement factor," from 4 cents to 5 cents an hour. This is retroactive to June 1.

FINALLY, workers in several skilled classifications and in maintenance classifications will get an extra 10-cent hourly increase.

Management estimated the 100-cent boost would go to nearly 300 workers in the Pottstown plant. The entire plant would cost the division approximately $800,000 in the next two years.

The vote in favor of the contract at the three other plants (Continued on Page Twelve)

Most of the questions asked by panel members were inquiries about the budget needs of the "Y," Vinicio Fisher, United Fund secretary, reported.

Before the meeting the 13 panelists were taken on a tour of "Y" facilities by Secretary Baird.

"It was the first time some of them had been through the building," Fisher remarked.

"They were surprised at the number of services offered there."

Those serving on the panel last night included Mrs. Melvin L. Ferree (chairman), Dr. Elmer Friedberg, William M. Hiestor, John M. Howard, Mrs. G. Harold Glenney, Mr. Carl M. Hofheinz, Mrs. Franklin Burefield, Mrs. Richard Saylor, Robert K. Roshon, Mrs. Clarence Yeager, Mrs. Harold Binder, Mrs. Richard Lindauer and Helen V. Purnell.

He Might Have Been Yours

THREE 15-year-old Philadelphia boys were on vacation Tuesday "up country" in the Red Hill sector where life for a city feller isn't too exciting at best.

So the boys took to the bushes with 22 rifles and tried to scare each other with close rifle shots. The closer a shot would whizz by the head of a participant the more scared he became. Which was just peachy, according to the object of the game.

But this bush-flushing pastime ended up just as one would expect: one of the boys was shot dead with a hole in the head.

There's nothing that will bring this boy back to life. He's dead. But his death underscores what has been preached and shouted from the housetops for countless years.

Don't let children and irresponsible youth have the use of firearms.

Guns and rifles have their place in civilization, but they certainly are no toy to be used for frightening playmates.

If children are not mature enough to realize the dangers involved, their parents should take sufficient interest in them to make sure that deadly weapons are not among their playthings.

The three Philadelphia boys were sort of evasive as to how they came by the rifles. They tried to create the impression that their parents had given them permission to use the guns but the boys weren't too positive about it.

It seems warranted that parents should take enough interest in their growing children to make sure they aren't playing with firearms, regardless of whether permission is granted or denied.

A coroner's inquest no doubt will establish how the boys came by the guns. That establishment will go a long way in determining who was responsible for this tragedy, if not legally then surely morally.

Meantime let every thinking parent give thought to whether his child has access to lethal weapons, either in his own home or in the company of friends. And let this same parent, who only by the grace of God is not one of the grieving parents in the Red Hill tragedy, determine positively and without a doubt that his child will have nothing to do with firearms.

Adults should not leave firearms where they are a temptation to youth. If a gun must be kept, keep it under strong lock and key.

Don't let a slaughter of this kind be repeated.

Don't delay investigating your own situation.

Delay may be costly. Investigate today.

Spotlight on United Fund

CITIZENS of Pottstown, almost a hundred strong and representative of all civic interests, this week began peering behind the scenes of local United Fund agencies to see just how they click.

The scrutinization of the agencies in 15 panel discussions will be effective in two ways. It will ascertain each agency's rightful share of the annual United Fund melon, and it will give bystanders a more generous appraisal of the agencies' chores in the community.

If either result could be effectively obtained, the effort would be well worthwhile. But since a double reward will be achieved, the effort is doubly worthwhile.

The United Fund has decreed wisely that full publicity shall be given these panel-agency discussions. Thus the glare of the spotlight will be turned on for the full benefit of every interested Pottsonian.

The task is tedious but the rewards will be great and will indeed cement pleasant public relations for the Fund with a far greater understanding of all details involved.

Elks Score Again

EVEN the Yankees have their bad days.

So it was far from disheartening to hear that the Elks club team had to settle for fourth place in the annual national championship at St. Louis.

Failure of the local lodge to recapture the coveted crown in no way detracts from the honor and glory the Elks have brought to Pottstown. Even fourth place in national competition is nothing to sniff at.

Our boys have done well.

Congratulations to them all.

To the Editor: Any action the Pottstown board of health may take against those who violate the borough ordinance requiring food handlers to take an examination cannot be severe enough to suit me.

It seems only right in my estimation that one who comes in contact with the public in this manner should not object to the X-ray exam. In fact, it should make them feel good to know that they are not endangering the lives of the people whom they serve.

This is one time where the borough should go all out in its efforts to clean up the town. They have passed an ordinance, now stick by it.

I cannot honestly say this or that person serving food in various places of business throughout the borough has a communicable disease. This no one can answer except the X-ray.

One way to remedy the situation is to run a list of those persons who have received their examinations by the Aug. 1 deadline. I think a public announcement of those who complied with the ordinance would steer patrons away from those who haven't.

What Ben Steele and company will do to violators remains to be seen. But whatever it is, I hope it is done without exception.

WASHINGTON

American Diplomacy Under Fire on Revolts

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 8.—American diplomacy is under heavy fire by uniformed critics for its apparent ineptitude when it should be recouping on the blunders committed at Yalta and Téhéran. Washington has failed utterly to capitalize on and intensify the Russian crisis in East Germany and the satellite states, according to this viewpoint.

The anvil chorus has placed responsibility directly on President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles. It is charged that they have voiced only platitudinous remarks on the anti-Communist uprising.

Indicating the source of this criticism, their guarded comment has been contrasted with the ringing challenge which these grave events would have evoked from F. D. R., or from Sir Winston Churchill in his prime.

It is said to have commuted with grim humor on this incident, to wit: "According to this theory, I should have notified Hitler and Rommel when and where we were going to invade Normandy!"

RIAS PLAYED IMPORTANT ROLE: The fact is that every device of diplomacy, propaganda and economic assistance has been employed quietly—in fact, surreptitiously—to encourage and promote unrest and active protest against Kremlin domination. For obvious reasons, violence in the form of guerrilla warfare or even street fighting is ruled out.

But our powerful radio station in the American zone, RIAS, played an important part in broadening the area of revolt. When the riots began in East Berlin, RIAS immediately broadcast the news throughout all the Red-controlled territory in Eastern Europe.

Otherwise, the East Berlin demonstration might have remained only a local fracas, quickly and silently suppressed. Instead, the anti-Communist movement ranged from the docks of Hamburg to the mines of Czechoslovakia and the collectivized farms of Poland.

BEGINNING OF THE END: British, French, Yugoslavian, Greek and Turkish radios also relayed the bad news—bad, that is, for the harassed men in the Kremlin. Eisenhower's subsequent declarations that this may mean the beginning of the end of the Communist empire now have first priority on all these radio forums.

Thus the imprisoned people know that they have a worldwide underground, directed and financed and armed by the United States.

On the subject of food as a weapon, it was no accident that Eisenhower asked Congress for discretionary authority over overseas distribution of surplus foodstuffs only ten days after the "June 17 revolution" as it is known in satellite territory. He wants to be able to feed the spirit of rebellion with a minimum of publicity, with the same secrecy he would use on a battlefield.

The Congressional wrangling over shipping wheat to India last year and to Pakistan now reveals the need for a more effective and less ostentatious method of utilizing this weapon—food—in the cold war. It required five months of Capitol Hill debate before the grain was okayed for Nehru's country. The grant of food to Pakistan was approved quickly enough, but the flippant and callous House discussion robbed it of much of its propaganda value.

If it is true that the gift without the giver is bare, the argument on the floor over this humanitarian question was Capitol Hill's most shocking strip-tease performance.

On the subject of food as a weapon, it was no accident that Eisenhower asked Congress for discretionary authority over overseas distribution of surplus foodstuffs only ten days after the "June 17 revolution" as it is known in satellite territory. He wants to be able to feed the spirit of rebellion with a minimum of publicity, with the same secrecy he would use on a battlefield.

The Congressional wrangling over shipping wheat to India last year and to Pakistan now reveals the need for a more effective and less ostentatious method of utilizing this weapon—food—in the cold war. It required five months of Capitol Hill debate before the grain was okayed for Nehru's country. The grant of food to Pakistan was approved quickly enough, but the flippant and callous House discussion robbed it of much of its propaganda value.

If it is true that the gift without the giver is bare, the argument on the floor over this humanitarian question was Capitol Hill's most shocking strip-tease performance.

Upholds X-Ray Law

To the Editor: Any action the Pottstown board of health may take against those who violate the borough ordinance requiring food handlers to take an examination cannot be severe enough to suit me.

It seems only right in my estimation that one who comes in contact with the public in this manner should not object to the X-ray exam. In fact, it should make them feel good to know that they are not endangering the lives of the people whom they serve.

This is one time where the borough should go all out in its efforts to clean up the town. They have passed an ordinance, now stick by it.

I cannot honestly say this or that person serving food in various places of business throughout the borough has a communicable disease. This no one can answer except the X-ray.

One way to remedy the situation is to run a list of those persons who have received their examinations by the Aug. 1 deadline. I think a public announcement of those who complied with the ordinance would steer patrons away from those who haven't.

What Ben Steele and company will do to violators remains to be seen. But whatever it is, I hope it is done without exception.

WASHINGTON

American Diplomacy Under Fire on Revolts

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 8.—American diplomacy is under heavy fire by uniformed critics for its apparent ineptitude when it should be recouping on the blunders committed at Yalta and Téhéran. Washington has failed utterly to capitalize on and intensify the Russian crisis in East Germany and the satellite states, according to this viewpoint.

The anvil chorus has placed responsibility directly on President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles. It is charged that they have voiced only platitudinous remarks on the anti-Communist uprising.

Indicating the source of this criticism, their guarded comment has been contrasted with the ringing challenge which these grave events would have evoked from F. D. R., or from Sir Winston Churchill in his prime.

It is said to have commuted with grim humor on this incident, to wit: "According to this theory, I should have notified Hitler and Rommel when and where we were going to invade Normandy!"

RIAS PLAYED IMPORTANT ROLE: The fact is that every device of diplomacy, propaganda and economic assistance has been employed quietly—in fact, surreptitiously—to encourage and promote unrest and active protest against Kremlin domination. For obvious reasons, violence in the form of guerrilla warfare or even street fighting is ruled out.

But our powerful radio station in the American zone, RIAS, played an important part in broadening the area of revolt. When the riots began in East Berlin, RIAS immediately broadcast the news throughout all the Red-controlled territory in Eastern Europe.

Otherwise, the East Berlin demonstration might have remained only a local fracas, quickly and silently suppressed. Instead, the anti-Communist movement ranged from the docks of Hamburg to the mines of Czechoslovakia and the collectivized farms of Poland.

BEGINNING OF THE END: British, French, Yugoslavian, Greek and Turkish radios also relayed the bad news—bad, that is, for the harassed men in the Kremlin. Eisenhower's subsequent declarations that this may mean the beginning of the end of the Communist empire now have first priority on all these radio forums.

Thus the imprisoned people know that they have a worldwide underground, directed and financed and armed by the United States.

On the subject of food as a weapon, it was no accident that Eisenhower asked Congress for discretionary authority over overseas distribution of surplus foodstuffs only ten days after the "June 17 revolution" as it is known in satellite territory. He wants to be able to feed the spirit of rebellion with a minimum of publicity, with the same secrecy he would use on a battlefield.

FRANKENSTEIN'S BACK

Hollywood

By EDITH GWYN

HOLLYWOOD, July 8.—Sure is nice to have the Basil Rathbone "back home." They contributed so much to the gaiety of this town before moving to N.Y. a few years ago. Some of the pleasantest eyes we've ever spent were in groups large or small. Basil is here for the Bob Hope picture, "Mr. Casanova," starting this week.

Ouida Rathbone tells us that besides her "stylized version" of "Sherlock Holmes" (using only the characters, but not the old stories) which Basil will do on Broadway this Fall, she's written another play, "Dark Angel." Alfred de Laage will produce it. They've cleared that title, once the tag of a Merle Oberon star.

Scott Brady and Eileen Howe have been dating. But we know whom she's really stuck on—and it isn't Scott!

PARAMOUNT ISN'T the only place with ants in its plans! This studio, already under way with "The Naked Jungle" (about giant-sized insects) gets competition from Warners with "Them" a picture about the same pests! The "soothing" Warner flicker has ants growing 14 feet high; and an Indies producer is starting something called, "Tarantula!" The latter will no doubt put spiders "in your lap." Pardon our "Ugh!"... Joan Crawford's projected "Lisbon" has been postponed, so the gal leaps immediately to Republic for her first western, "Johnny Guitar".... Those quotes Bob Calhoun gives out regarding a supposed torch he's carrying for Ginny Simms are tress hard to swallow.... Latest rumors as to who'll pick the plum "Oklahoma!" leads, concern Florence Henderson and Richard Bond, the personal choices of Rodgers and Hammerstein. Both are well known in the theater, unknown to movies. Their screen tests this week will decide.

DANNY THOMAS (bless him) has been giving 20 percent of his income, plus playing countless benefits for same, to the building of a St. Jude hospital for underprivileged children. There'll be a huge St. Jude benefit at the Hollywood Bowl end of the week. Danny, along with Marilyn Monroe, Tony Martin, Jane Russell, Danny Kaye, Peggy Lee and many other stars appear. Bunch of disc-jockeys, including Gene Norman, Pete Potter, Alex Cooper, Bob McLaughlin help stage the shindig.

PLANE CRASH—Two Army airmen crashed in an Army plane in woodland on Rattlesnake Hill near a road leading from Pine Forge towards Douglassville. Neither was injured. The mishap occurred near the home of B. W. Fredricks.

PARK GUARD—Douglass E. Schaeffer, of 254 North Manatawny street, assumed his duties as guard at the Manatawny Park where there have been a number of disorders. Schaeffer was sworn in by Burgess Lewis P. Sweeney. He receives $25 a month salary.

Quick, the name?

2. Her biography is not a very lengthy one because she made her debut in the screen world in 1950. She was born in Buffalo, N. Y., on a certain Feb. 20, and worked as a telephone operator. Her first picture was "Battleground," then "Stars in My Crown" and "Counterspy Meets Scotland Yard," and was working when this was written in "Sabre Jet." Who is she?

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Bustling Hamlet... Upped to Corporal...

★ NEWS CENTER—If things continue the way they've been going the past 22 months, the little community of Hopewell, east of Red Hill, should change its name to Happenville. Although there are only about 150 people living in the section, the following news-stories all came from there: In September of 1951, Ronald Cressman had very serious burns of the arms and face when gasoline he was using to prime his car burst into flames. The following June, a 15-ton power shovel went out of control and wrecked the front of Harry Beaver's house. The past December, the barn of Henry Joannens was destroyed by a $25,000 fire, 15 cows burning to death. Tuesday, a 15-year-old boy unintentionally killed another 15-year-old boy with a 22-caliber rifle. Cressman is a son-in-law of Mrs. Emily Macbeth, who got the physician Tuesday. Beaver's house is at the end of the short road near which the 15-year-old was slain.

OFF TO EUROPE—Mrs. Mae Leeder and Mrs. H. F. Stapp will enplane for Europe tomorrow. They plan to visit the fashion centers of Paris, Rome and Florence. They expect to return by way of London and will come back to this country by boat. The John Storb travel agency arranged the trip.

★ MISSING MAN PROMOTED—A note which yesterday summarized the way Mrs. Clyde W. McElroy, 48 West Main street, South Pottstown, has continued to hope that her son, 23-year-old Clyde E. McElroy, who was reporting missing in action in Korea 2 1/2 years ago, is still alive. By coincidence Mr. and Mrs. McElroy received a letter from the Defense department yesterday, in which they were told that their missing son has been promoted from private first class to corporal. This is in line with a new service policy of giving regular promotions to men captured or missing in Korea. The Defense department added that there still is no information available on what happened to him.

LEAVE ENDS—Army Pfc. Harvey Baldwin, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Baldwin, 530 Walnut street, has left for Ft. Lewis, Wash., after a 30-day leave following a year's duty in Korea. He expects to remain at Ft. Lewis until his enlistment ends in January. Before joining the Army, he was employed by Roysford Foundry and Machine company.

X CORPS DUTY—Pvt. Wilmer R. Kline Jr., Pennsburg, and Pvt. Joseph Hughes, whose wife Helen lives at 507 West Buttonwood street, Penn Village, have joined the 73d Engineer Combat battalion, a unit of X corps, in Korea. Private Hughes, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. McCullough, Pottstown RD 3, formerly was employed by the Doehler-Jarvis corporation.

★ ELECTED—Three Firestone engineers have been elected to junior membership in the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. They are Charles M. Dunley, 342 Highland road, Joseph C. Fisher, 149 Sunrise lane, and Wilmer Souder Jr., 244 Beech street.... Donald E. Woodley, Pottstown garbage collector, has been awarded the garbage-collecting contract of the city of Allentown for the next five years. He expects to operate six trucks in this job, which he said will not affect his Pottstown operation.... GIVE AWAY DEPT. Male dog, part cocker spaniel and part Irish setter, nine weeks old, black and white. John A. Friend, 373 New street, Phone 3653-W.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

UNTIL public clamor over ring fatalities and brutalities caused boxing authorities to take action, the physician had little part to play in professional and amateur boxing.

He might, before the bout, stethoscope the prize fighters and check their blood pressure and body temperature. He then took his usual seat until it was time to repair the damaged men.

Today in progressive states, medical measures are now being undertaken to protect the fighters. Physicians thoroughly screen the men to make sure that their hearts are in good condition. They examine for the possibility of epilepsy or the tendency to have convulsions.

In some states, any fighter that is knocked unconscious is required to have an electroencephalogram, which is taken by an instrument that measures the brain waves and determines whether any brain damage has been brought about.

Much damage can be prevented to the fighter by using eight and ten-ounce gloves rather than the usual six-ounce glove. The old glove used to have loose padding so that it could be shifted away from the knuckles. The more preventive type of glove is made of latex-bound pad.

The resin used to coat the floors of the ring to provide adequate friction is now being replaced by calcium carbonate. This will protect the fighter's eyes, since the resin is very damaging to the eyes.

New plastic mouth pieces have been perfected so that the shock of jaw blows can be lessened. These are much safer and more effective than the rubber mouth now being used.

The thin canvas mats that were once used are now being replaced by a synthetic soft substance, known as en-solite, which cushions the falls.

Physicians have learned that fighting may give rise to specific diseases. Boxing and repeated blows to the head may result in permanent damage to the brain and nervous system.

Medical and laboratory skills have been combined in the fight to protect the fighter from his occupational hazards.

The Sattlers were on their way to Boston to meet two orphan nephews arriving from Germany.

Scheduled Big 3 Talks Seen as Check To Disunity Among Western Powers

WASHINGTON, July 8.—U.S. Dulles is expected to seek assurances of new strategic plans by the Three talks opening here Friday. French which would hold hope of success for breaking the power among the Western powers and produce plans for coordinated action in dealing with Russia's "peace offensive" and the future of Germany.
Any decisions reached specifically about Germany, however, will not become final until after consultations with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.
There was not hint from responsible sources as to what such plans might provide but many Western leaders have been studying means of taking advantage of anti-Communist uprisings in Eastern Germany to exploit Soviet difficulties there and to press for German unification on terms acceptable to the West.
The Marquess of Salisbury, acting British foreign secretary, and George Bidault are scheduled to reach Washington tomorrow for the conference which will open Friday afternoon and run through Tuesday.
DIPLOMATIC informants said the discussions would cover the global interests of the three powers with special emphasis on the following specific problems:
1. Unrest in East Berlin and generally in East Germany. The United States, Britain and France have been in close contact with this dramatic situation through their representatives in Germany but consider it desirable to review the possibilities for action in the talks here and to provide for coordinated action.
2. The future of Germany and its part in the European Defense community. Secretary of State Dulles is expected to press the new French Government, in which Bidault is foreign minister, to act as quickly as possible on formation of a European Defense community, which would include West German troops.
In this connection Dulles considers it important that the three powers should reach a common understanding on the significance of recent Soviet moves and what the Western powers ought to do about them. The conviction of Dulles and other US officials is that the Soviet peace offensive is largely designed to interfere with the organization of Western defenses and that the Western powers must not permit this.
3. The Indochina war. This will be a matter of discussion primarily in two-way talks between Dulles and Bidault. The French are expected to ask that the United States increase its support for French and native forces battling the Reds in Indochina. The US contribution is already running at about one billion dollars a year. On the American side

Sunday Sidewalk Barbers Ply Trade Adding Color to Mexico City Streets

By EMIL ZUBRYN (Central Press Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, Mexico — When Sunday comes to Mexico city's populated barrios (city districts), one of the strangest, yet typically Mexican phenomena occurs — the ambulant barbers!

Wherever there is a tree, on the street or in neighborhood parks, or against a fence or wall that throws a little shade, a small army of open air barbers goes into action.

Early in the morning, having selected "strategic" sites, the barbers find some means to put mirror, scissors, shaving mugs, strops and other utensils of the trade within easy reach.

A folding chair or box completes the equipment of the "barbers of the poor" who have been dubbed pelugeros de paisaje or, freely translated, "landscape barbers."

POSTOFFICE GETS 2D CLASS RATING IN MONT CLARE

Changes in Schedule Of Hours Also Announced

MONT CLARE—Mrs. Thomas Carna, Bridge and Grace street, Mont Clare, cor. Phone Phoenixville 7-317, C. Douglas Male, delivery. Phone Pottstown 31-J-2.

Charles Wood recently was admitted to the Phoenixville hospital as a patient.

Clarence Miller, postmaster of the Mont Clare postoffice, has announced his office has been raised in rating to second class.

The jump from third to second class is dependent entirely upon the number of receipts from postage stamps over a year-long period, the postmaster stated.

The new rating will necessitate a change in hours, making them 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. Hours had been from 7:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m.

In view of these hours, additional help will be employed.

Evelyn Miller will continue her duties as clerk and Mrs. Francis Yergler, previously a substitute clerk, will work on a full-time scale.

IN ADDITION to carrying a complete line of regular postage from one cent to five dollars, Miller stated that the Mont Clare office will carry US Savings stamps and US Savings bonds from $25 value up to $1000.

Migratory Bird stamps and Documentary stamps, never before handled in that office also will be available there. The Mont Clare office also is making preparations for another change.

A move from its present location to a new site on or about October.

At that time the postoffice will have quarters in what is currently the Mont Clare Cut Rate store, located on the opposite corner at Bridge and Walnut streets. Russell Deery, owner of the store, is erecting a modern one-story building directly to the rear of the present location.

House Passes Sales Tax Bill

from 172 to 125 millions it is estimated to produce in its present form.

"Those are considerable accomplishments for which someone can take credit," he said. "We (the Democrats) wouldn't have done it in this way at this time."

"You say that your philosophy is represented in this bill. We say ours is in opposition."

The break on the sales tax controversy came after two GOP holdouts, Reps. Edward Dunn (Northumberland) and Francis Worley (Adams) withdrew their opposition.

THE SALES tax bill, defeated June 10 by a vote of 94-102 was brought up again for a second vote through a parliamentary move of reconsidering the original vote.

Other members of anti-sales tax bloc then, caved in, except for Reps. August Metz (R. Pike) and Henry Ragot (R. Northampton).

The GOP leadership brought in several members who had been ill at home, including Reps. Ivan G. Watkins (R. Schuylkill), Harold Flack (R. Luzerne) and G. Edgar Kline (R. Schuylkill).

The only two Republican absentees were Metz and Rep. John H. Light (R. Lebanon). Light, a backer of the sales tax, was hospitalized in Harrisburg with an eye ailment.

Speaker Charles C. Smith (R. Phila.) and Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Republican State chairman, spark-plugged the behind-the-scenes maneuvering to revive the sales levy.

Worley was called into Gov. John S. Fine's office for persuasion to withdraw his opposition to the sales tax. Afterwards, he said: "I am against the sales tax as a matter of principle but I will vote for it as the only way to end the present deadlock. The new exemptions (restaurant food and clothing) make it more equitable for the average working man."

Worley's viewpoint mirrored the thinking of the other holdouts who switched their position on the tax.

M'KAY SIGNS AS MEMBER OF HOT RODDERS

He Becomes 15,000th
To Join National Association

By ARTHUR EDSON
(Associated Press Writer)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Secretary of Interior McKay, in a highly informal ceremony in his office, today became the 15,000th member of the National Hot Rod Association.

"What? At my age?" asked the 60-year-old McKay as he was handed his membership card, his manual and his lapel pin.

McKay was assured he was a full fledged hot rodder.

"Now what must be done," member No. 15,000 said, "is to get everyone to understand that hot rods are not what most people think they are. The hot rodders are trying to stop accidents and cut down on bad driving. When most people think of hot rods, they think of some screwball. Actually, it's dedicated to safety."

McKay was given his membership because, as an automobile dealer in Salem, Ore., and later as governor, he long has been safety-conscious.

BLT IN most ways he's not a typical hot rodder. As Wally Parks, the association's president who presented the membership to McKay, explained later, a true hot rodder is one who works on his car's motor to give it zip or its body to improve its looks.

When McKay came to Washington, he figured he needed a car for his unofficial business, so he bought an air conditioned car. As far as can be determined he has done precisely nothing to improve either (a) its motor or (b) its looks.

Because of the pressure of official business, he's had little time for unofficial travel, and the word today is that, after two months, the car now has 75 miles on it, undoubtedly the most unriden in air conditioned automobile anywhere.

Getting back to hot rodders, Parks thinks that since kids are going to let off steam, the best way is find methods whereby they can steam harmlessly.

THE ASSOCIATION frowns on circular tracks. Kids can get hurt there. But Parks is all for quarter-mile races from a standing start down a straightaway.

Most police forces, Parks says, have co-operated with the hot rodders. "And I don't know why, but we have a lot of policemen and firemen as members."

As publisher of such successful magazines as "Hot Rod" and "Motor Trend," the 39-year-old Parks looks what he is—a successful business man.

But ever since he bought a Model T. Ford for $4 when he was in high school, he's been a hot rodder at heart.

"I drive a little roadster to work. It's a 1929 model Ford on a 1932 Ford frame with a modified Mercury engine." He looked hurt when someone asked if he had put it together himself. "Of course," he said.

AS WE were coming out of the interior building, a stripped down car came by, and a youthful member of our party, Ronny Lange let out a sharp whistle.

"That's Jack," Lange said. "Jack Woodruff. I want you to look at his job. Wally."

So Wally went out to look at Jack's job. He noted approvingly that Woodruff, a 17-year-old, had replaced the canvas top with metal and had put on hydraulic brakes.

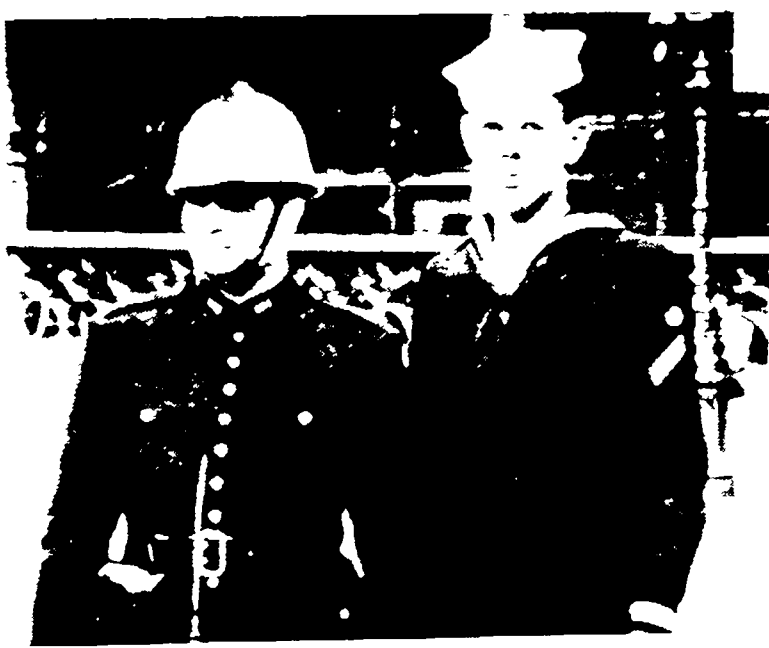

"Good safety features," Parks said. "A mighty nice job."

Woodruff and his car both seemed to purr at these words from the master McKay in his air conditioned auto couldn't have looked prouder.

Infant Drowns in Tub When Mother Blacks Out

AFL Leader Meany Hails Soviet-Ruled Workers for Revolt

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 8.—AFL President George Meany today hailed East German workers for "unsurpassable courage" in defying Soviet tanks "with their bare fists."

He told a world congress of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions (ICFTU) the workers' revolt was "inspiring proof" of the development of democracy in Germany.

Meany spoke shortly after President Eisenhower, at a news conference in Washington, praised ICFTU leaders for having asked him to aid the East German workers.

The President said it was significant that labor leaders took that initiative since it showed up Communist claims to be running a workers' paradise.

MEANY developed the same theme, telling the conference the world's workers reject the speed-up whether it is enforced by "the private capitalist or a ruthless totalitarian dictatorship under which the State is the exploiter and oppressor."

Pointing out the social and political significance of the East German workers' revolt against the so-called proletarian dictatorship which has for so long posed as champion of labor he said:

"Here is proof — inspiring proof — of the progress of democracy among the German people. It is measured not in cold figures of economic reconstruction but in immortal terms in unsurpassable courage of a disarmed, divided and suppressed nation protesting fearlessly against injustice and defying with their bare fists Soviet tanks and bayonets."

"Economic injustice is an inherent and incurable evil of the military economy behind the Iron Curtain," Meany said, and added:

"The stepped-up norms of production, against which Czech and German labor have rebelled, are part and parcel of the preparations for aggression and conquest for the destruction of human liberty being made so feverishly by the ruling class in the Kremlin."

STRESSING that the Soviet Zone workers revolted against the new norms after they had been told that the Communist dictators would relax their brutality and that the entire five-year-plan would be revised, he said.

"If only some of our states-

Emergency Program Receives Approval Of French Assembly

PARIS, July 8 (AP) — Premier Joseph Laniel hammered his emer-gency financial program through the National Assembly today and then entrusted Foreign Minister Georges Bidault with seeking more American help in the seven-year war in Indo-China.

With great parliamentary skill, Laniel personally piloted a series of financial measures through the assembly in a marathon all-night session.

He won the right to make cer-tain reductions in government expenditures by decree, to re-organize some governmental machinery, and increase taxes on gasoline and alcohol.

The victory represented a notable upset in the thinking of the deputies, who always are re-luctant to raise taxes and especially the levies on gasoline and alcohol.

Laniel handled the situation quietly, by letting the deputies de-bate at length and then announcing that if defeated he would have to resign just as Bidault was about to leave for Washington for the Big Three conference with the American and British foreign min-isters.

ARMY HOSPITAL IMPEACHMENT — WORKER QUILTS

Mrs. Frances Havrilla
Resigns Job as Secretary

MONT CLARE—Mrs. Thomas Carns, Bridge and Grace streets, Mont Clare, Pa., Phone Pottstown 2127, C. Douglas, Del. Home, delivery, Phone Pottstown 31-4-2.

Mrs. Frances Havrilla, Mont Clare, after eight years and two months of service at Valley Forge Army hospital is leaving to take up her duties as a housewife on a full-time basis.

Mrs. Havrilla went to VFAH in April, 1945, and worked as a clerk-stenographer in surgical service when the hospital was a general hospital. Married June 14, 1947, to Robert C. Havrilla, the Havrillas make their home in Mont Clare.

On February 27, Mrs. Havrilla was assigned as secretary to the chief of the Medical Service where she has worked ever since. On September 7, 1949, Mrs. Havrilla was awarded an excellent rating and on March 31, 1952, she was awarded an outstanding rating.

To extend formal farewells, many of her friends attended a dinner held in her honor at Lake side inn at which time she was presented with a gift.

AMONG those attending the dinner were: Mrs. Louise Ewing, Ruth Moulder, Mrs. Ruth Mielke, Mrs. Yvonne Strom, Mrs. Margaret Holtzner, Ray Desmore, M. Sgt. Bertha Mueller, Ann Talon and the guest of honor, Mrs. Frances Havrilla.

ALLIES, REDS —

a new meeting of the full armistice delegations.

Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, flew to Seoul today from his Tokyo headquarters and led a high-powered US team into a 22-minute conference with Rhee. They failed to crack Rhee's stand.

"The same as yesterday," President Eisenhower's special envoy, Walter Robertson, commented to correspondents after the meeting.

Others attending with Clark were Ambassador to Korea Ellis Briggs and Ambassador Robert Murphy, Clark's special adviser on Korean affairs.

Clark said he had brought no new instructions from Washington. But his statement did not rule out the possibility that Eisenhower and his advisers were preparing new instructions for the talks with the Reds, covering possibilities of a truce without South Korea's approval.

smart" the fine would either be paid without protest, or petitioner would serve 10 days in the county prison.

6. Petitioner refused to pay the fine without protest, and advised the justice his civil liberties and Constitutional rights were being violated, and that the justice was exceeding his scope of authority and power by cursing at petitioner.

7. Petitioner was then committed to prison on the advice of the secretary, who stated, "We've taken enough from him; let's commit him."

8. Petitioner was then committed to prison, and delivered to the prison without a hearing, but paid the fine and was released immediately through the commendable co-operation of the prison warden.

PETITIONER believes that:

1. The justice is guilty of oppression.

2. He exceeded the scope of his power and authority in refusing the hearing.

3. The justice is incompetent to hold office of public trust, and importance to the public welfare.

4. The justice willingly and with full knowledge of the act violated petitioner's constitutional and legal rights and civil liberties.

5. The procedure used to collect fines and costs by the justice might constitute extortion.

6. The justice is guilty of intimidation and coercion.

Petitioner believes that sufficient causes exist to cause justice to be impeached, and therefore, petitioner prays the court to issue an order on the justice to show just cause why he should not be impeached.

THE VIOLATION leading to Weir's arrest occurred in Norris-town several months ago.

He said he was arrested by a Norris-town borough policeman for driving too fast for conditions.

The petitioner claimed the summons sent to his home by registered mail was received by another member of the family while he was away on a trip with his truck. He said he knew nothing of the summons until the police arrested him on the warrant.

Citing Section 1202 of the Motor Vehicle code, Weir contended he first should have been taken to a justice of the peace in the township in which he was arrested, Lower Providence.

Police took him directly to Jamison. He was riding in his truck when arrested.

THE SECTION reads in part, "The peace officer serving such warrant (reference to Jamison's warrant for failure to appear on the summons in ten days) shall take the defendant before a magistrate, within the city, borough, incorporated town, or township in which the defendant was found, or if there is no person holding the office of magistrate in such city, borough, incorporated town or township, then the defendant shall be taken before a magistrate in any adjoining city, borough, incorporated town or township, who shall take bail either for the defendant's appearance before the magistrate who issued the warrant, or for his appearance for trial in the proper court, if a summary hearing is waived.

PROMOTED—French Marshal Alphonse-Pierre Juin has been named commander in chief of all Allied forces in central Europe by retiring NATO Supreme Commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway. Juin has been commander of all Allied ground forces in central Europe.

The Sixth amendment of the Bill of Rights, which Weir used to support his claim of constitutional violation by the justice reads, "In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which districts shall have been previously ascertained by law and then to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense."

involved was: Toledo, Yes, 1534; No, 703; Batavia, N. Y., Yes, 331; No, 296; Chicago, Ill., Yes, 277; No, 46.

Pottstown workers voted in the plant Tuesday from 2 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. Returns were tallied yesterday morning at the Die-casters club by Diener's committee.

THIS ORDNANCE told the constable to arrest persons any time he saw three or more of them assembled together without a good reason. This law carried a $5 fine. One of the few councilmen ever fined for being absent from a meeting was a person named Sam Mis-simer, in 1819. He paid a quarter then, probably angry, asked that he be given leave of absence for the rest of the meeting. The demand was granted.

Probably one of the first speed laws was put into effect in the borough in 1855. Under this law trains were forbidden from traveling more than four miles per hour, which must have been a bonus to Jesse James and his crew.

This speed limit was raised in 1878, though, to six miles per hour. And in 1894, with a bunch of liberals in power, the limit was boosted to 15 miles per hour.

In 1886, a group of far-seeing councilmen made it illegal to drive a stagecoach along the sidewalk. They also included "horses, cattle, all animals, bicycles, tricycles, sleighs, sleds, wagons, carts, and omnibuses." The fine was $5. America was becoming civilized.

In 1878, they passed a law prohibiting riding or "driving" down the streets at a speed of more than seven miles per hour. What's tough to figure out is what kind of speed traps they could have used then.

Here's another interesting little law that has a lot of significance today. In 1848, a law was passed that said you couldn't keep more than 100 pounds of gunpowder in your home at one time.

And if you were hauling the stuff in a wagon you couldn't stop at a tavern for more than one hour. They were probably afraid that if you stayed any longer you'd blow yourself to one last drink.

They did have a lot of real trouble in those days, though. Especially in collecting taxes.

IN AUGUST of 1819 three councilmen were commissioned to put their heads together and try to come up with some plan whereby the borough could pick up tax money—a total of $200 of it.

They apparently came up with a plan but the tax collector seemed to have trouble prying the cash loose from the citizens.

The council in 1820, as a matter of fact, couldn't stand it any more. They sent the clerk out with orders to bring back the tax collector so they could find out what he'd been doing. He came back and showed them the books. He'd collected $25.

They patted him on the back and sent him out for more. As a matter of fact things got so tough that the council actually started to tax dogs. It was in July, 1836, that they hit upon this in-human measure. A man was taxed 50 cents for his first dog, 75 cents for his second and an extra quarter for each additional.

MAYBE THAT'S why they had so many fines in those days. The fines were collected in a friendly manner, though. In almost all cases, the borough would split the fine 50-50 with the guy who squealed on the violator. This gave the borough one of the biggest police forces in the area.

Of course, the costs of things were much smaller in the old days, too. Take one of the first road repair programs for instance.

In 1819, after great speeches, and deliberations, the council passed a program to repair about eight streets. Total cost: $87.

The wages were not quite up to union scale either. Laborers got 75 cents a day. For two years work the tax collector was paid $17.11. The clerk of council got $7.27 for the same period.

YOU REALLY ought to take a look at these old records.

There are 14 books with the records of the council meetings and two containing the very first ordinances.

Besides these you'll find three "Burgess Ledgers" which contain glowing accounts of such crime waves as the time in 1894 a man stole eight chickens and the time in the same year that a man was arrested for having stolen "18 brass journals (whatever they are) from railroad gondola cars."

The councilmen of the 19th century all did a great job. Some-times their experiences in Sam Smith's joint and the Barr inn make you wish you were back there.

The only trouble is that with all those fines flying hot and heavy you probably couldn't afford to stay there. Even though you're making union wages horses through town; forbidding the running of pigs through town.

In 1822, two great pieces of legislation went through. The first ordered the constable to arrest any young boys playing ball or "any other immoral sports or games" and fining them $1.

The second one said it was unlawful to swim between sunrise and 8 p. m. A later ordinance forbade swimming entirely.

In 1824 came the first of three tremendous ordinances aimed at "The Suppression of Vice and Immorality."

THIS MADE it illegal to (1) "sell or use squibs, crackers, rockets or other fireworks." The fine, 67 cents.

(2) Any minors in a group playing games or disturbing the peace were fined 50 cents.

(3) Any minors found on the streets after 10 p. m. in the Summer or 9 p. m. in the Winter were arrested and fined 50 cents.

(4) Any person making noise after dark was arrested. (The wise legislatures added, however, that it was all right to make a loud noise in case of a fire or other danger.)

The Council used to have a kind of Court of Appeals before each session when a citizen would come in to claim they were being overtaxed.

Only one fellow ever got any tax money back, it seems. He was returned 30 cents because he proved he was a minor. That was in 1819.

IN 1844 another "ordinance for the Suppression of Vice and Immorality" came through. This one made it illegal for young boys and men to "holler at, or throw stones or other missiles at lecturers or at religious meetings." The fine for this was $5. It seems a lot of over-zealous youngsters were doing just that in 1844.

This next law also went a long way towards securing protection for women in those wild days.

"Any person rudely insulting a female by laying a violent hand on her or using blasphemous language" was fined $5.

But it wasn't until 1867 that the third ordinance against Vice and Immorality came out and this time it included an attack against John Barleycorn.

Henceforth, any person found drunk was fined $2 for the first offense and $3 for each subsequent one.

It was that same year that a law was passed that, if it hadn't been repealed, might have been a death blow to Rotary International.

He's Driving His Cares Away!

There's a great industrialist in Detroit, and a well-known scientist in New York, and a famous statesman in Washington who will tell you that the best way to relax from the cares of the day is to get behind the wheel of a 1953 Cadillac.

And there are also thousands upon thousands of other Cadillac owners throughout America who will gladly add supporting testimony to these revealing statements.

For these motorists know, from their own personal experience, that there is no faster or surer way to relax and refresh than to take to the highway with a smooth, comfortable, quiet Cadillac car.

It makes a man feel good just to sit behind the wheel. As he glances about his Cadillac's gracious interior, he's reminded that he has made something out of his years—and that, in itself, gives a lift to his spirits.

And then, once he's out on the highway—well, in no time at all, he's as happy and contented and trouble-free

Heavy Fighting Flares With 1000 Chinese In Attack

DEFEATED FORCES SURGE BACK ON RIDGE CREST

SEOUL, Thursday, July 8.—Heavy fighting flared anew on the Korean Western front just before midnight last night when Chinese infantry, just defeated in a 40-hour battle on Arrowhead ridge, surged back in a new effort to gain the height.

Fighting raged into the pre-dawn hours today.

The Reds were met by veteran South Korean Second division troops who had hurled the Communists back at least five times in a non-stop fight that began Monday night and did not end until noon Tuesday.

Second Division officers estimated the new attack was spearheaded by a full Red battalion of nearly 1000 men, although it was impossible to be certain in the darkness.

OLDEST MAILMAN—Having joined the postal service at an age 74—when most men have retired, 94-year-old Martin O. Childers is still going strong on his mail route, which takes him 62 miles a day from Beloit to Hunter, Kan., and return. Asked when he expects to retire, Childers remarked, "I expect to carry mail for about 50 years before considering it." He is world's oldest mailman.

AT FIRST REPORTS the South Koreans were holding their own in heavy action.

The Reds formed for the new attack before nightfall but were spotted and worked over with artillery. When the Reds hit, the South Koreans were ready and waiting.

Arrowhead is a strategic position 45 miles North of Seoul and overlooks the important Chonwon valley supply route from the South.

Six miles Southeast of Arrowhead, US Seventh Division troops had only a few bunkers, to clean out on the Western slopes of Porkchop hill to rid it of remaining Reds. But a rain of Communist artillery and mortar fire seriously hindered infantry efforts to burn and blast out Chinese clinging to bunkers and crevices.

Porkchop was smashed hard with flamethrowers and 122 mm. cannon by a Chinese regiment at the same time Arrowhead was hit on Monday.

Congressional Hearing Reports Reds Infiltrated Ranks of American Clergy

NEW YORK, July 8.—A congressional hearing today was reported to have turned up evidence that Communist elements had infiltrated the ranks of American clergymen to a potentially dangerous extent.

Rep. Gordon H. Scherer (R-Ohio), presiding as a one-man subcommittee of the House un-American Activities committee, said he had received both documentary and verbal evidence showing Red infiltration of the clergy.

Man Returns Home After Leaving for Work 50 Years Ago

NEW YORK, July 8.—Charles Stuckel is home again to see his wife and family—after 50 years.

Stickel, now 86 and a retired jewelry worker, walked out of his Queens home in 1903 and, instead of going to work, went West. His family never heard from him again.

Mrs. Stuckel took in washing to raise her four children, two of whom later died.

Recently Stickel's grandson, Harry Luning, who works for International Business Machines at Endicott, N. Y., got curious about the whereabouts of his grandfather.

Since jewelry workers are fingerprinted, finding out wasn't too much trouble. Stuckel was located in Detroit, and his daughter, Mrs. Pearl Luning, of Queens, wrote him a letter.

STICKEL DIDN'T answer the first letter, but a second letter from Mrs. Luning brought a reply. He had had a change of heart, he said, and would come back to Queens for a visit.

The happy family reunion took place yesterday, and far from raising a fuss with him about his 50-year absence, Mrs. Stuckel, also, 80, held his hand and told a reporter:

"I never stopped loving him."

Arkansas Files Suit to Void Congress Action Giving Oil Tidelands to States

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Arkansas is held by the United States to go to court today in an effort to void the action of Congress in giving the Coastal States title to submerged off shore lands and their rich oil resources.

The State filed a suit in US District court here attacking the constitutionality of the submerged lands act. It said Congress exceeded its powers.

The State, acting through its attorney general, Tom Gentry, called the act "an unwarranted and valid attempt to abdicate the sovereignty of the United States to a few of the states."

The act, the petition said, "is in violation of the trust under which all the lands beneath the marginal can Activities committee, said he had received both documentary and verbal evidence showing Red infiltration of the clergy.

The infiltration is such, he said, that it constitutes "a danger unless the American people are made fully aware of the program."

Scherer said the testimony, given behind closed doors, came from witnesses "in a position to know" the facts about the ministry and Communism.

IT INDICATES, he said, that Communism had tried "with some degree of success" in the United States and other countries to worm into the clergy and foster its "entire anti-religious program."

Scherer said the committee has no intention of attacking religion or the clergy in general, but simply to help "the American people understand what is going on."

It was the second day of hearings in New York at which attention has centered on subject of Communism and religious leaders.

The committee is headed by Rep. Harold Velde (R-Ill.), now in the House.

THE COMMITTEE yesterday said some ministers had been named as Reds, but their names were not disclosed.

Today's witnesses included Manning Johnson, 45, a negro, who broke with the Communist party in 1940 after serving on its national committee.

Scherer said Johnson's testimony and that of other witnesses concerned "the basic program of the Communist party itself for its infiltration into religious life."

Scherer said Johnson also named a number of American clergymen as members of the Communist party, or fellow travelers.

Scherer said some of them were "men of prominence," but declined to give any clue as to who they were or how many names were mentioned.

State Department Lifts Ban on Books By Communists in Overseas Libraries

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The Communist and anti-Communist State department tonight lifted its ban on the use of books by Communist authors in overseas libraries provided the works serve "the ends of democracy."

"Our libraries have acquired some books by Communists or Communist sympathizers that have nothing to do with Communism," said a statement issued with the approval of Secretary Dulles.

"Mystery stories, for example are a highly developed form of American literature. Humor or humor anthologies are another example."

"Most of such books were among the thousands of volumes acquired from the US Army overstock at the end of the war or as the result of gifts. To remove or destroy these books arbitrarily would be to defeat the very purposes which brought these libraries into being."

Ike Tells Mossadegh Aid Is Dependant on Agreement on Oil

TEHRAN, Iran, July 8.—President Eisenhower has written premier Mossadegh not to expect any large-scale economic aid from the US until he reaches an oil agreement with Britain, Iranian sources said today.

These sources said Eisenhower's letter also told Iran's aged premier that the US was disturbed by the freedom allowed Communist activity in Iran.

(The White House said there would be no comment on the Eisenhower message "at this time.")

Eisenhower's reported reference to Communist activity was made public coincident with news to two important developments in Iran's relations with the Soviet Union:

1. The recently nationalized Caspian fisheries announced agreement to sell all this year's caviar output to Russia for an undisclosed price.

2. Newspapers reported that Iran's ambassador to Moscow has told Soviet Foreign Minister NM Molotov that Mossadegh is willing to negotiate her border and other differences with Russia.

Some papers speculated that a non-aggression pact with the Soviet union is in the offing.

Etelaat, the country's largest paper, said a Soviet mission was coming to Tehran for negotiations.

It said American officials in Tehran are watching these developments with anxiety.

Johnson put out the statement a few hours after President Eisenhower told newsmen that withholding of information about books removals was not in line with his views.

The President told his news conference the State department and CIA people were busily engaged in what he called a new look at the whole matter of the book controversy.

The purge of books started later Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) charged that 30,000 books by Communists were in the libraries. A number of directives were then issued by authorities here and in the ensuing confusion some non-

Committee Supports Ike, Defeats Income Tax Reduction Plan

WASHINGTON, July 8.—In a smashing triumph for the Eisenhower Administration, the House Ways and Means committee today approved the President's plan to extend the excess profits tax for six months.

House GOP leaders promptly scheduled the bill for floor action Friday. They predicted it will roll easily down the rest of the legislative trail.

Administration forces won a 16 to 9 vote to report the bill favorably to the full House after the measure—fiercely opposed by Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY)—had been bottled up in the tax-writing ways and means committee for weeks.

To cap the victory, the committee voted down 14 to 11, an Administration-opposed plan which would have provided a cut in personal income taxes on Oct. 1.

THE SHOWDOWN, after weeks of delay and bitter maneuvering, came in a three-hour closed session in which the committee voted heavily and repeatedly against its chairman, Reed, who fought to the end.

In a statement, Reed declared: "Seldom before in our legislative history has so much pressure been applied by the White House to deny the people of this Nation a much deserved tax reduction."

The 78-year-old committee chairman said that all Republicans, including the President, promised tax cuts—not increases.

'Million Dollar Legs' Girl Dies in Sanitarium at 94

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Frankie Bailey, the showgirl grandpa remembers as "the girl with the million dollar legs" when she was on Broadway, died today in a sanitarium. She was 94.

The flame of Broadway in the gaslight era, Miss Bailey shared stardom with such performers as Lillian Russell, David Warfield, Joe Weber and Lew Fields.

She was born in New Orleans and reared in Cincinnati.

BERLIN, July 8.—Mutinous East Berlin workers badgered the Russians into lifting their armed barricade of the city's East-West border today by staging sit-down and slow-down strikes. Work was almost halted at many big industrial plants.

But the strikers were not satisfied. They continued to loaf and protest and may keep up their harassing tactics tomorrow. In many places in East Germany, too, the workers were reported striking.

The workers were unarmed.

Taft Reported 'Good' After Operation in New York Hospital

NEW YORK, July 8.—Sen. Robert A. Taft (Ohio) underwent an exploratory operation today as specialists tried to find out more about the hip ailment which forced him to give up active leadership of the Senate.

"He stood the operation well and his condition is good," the hospital reported. Taft will be 64 this September.

There was no specific disclosure as to what the operation showed, but the hospital said his hip had been improving.

The operation, performed under the watchful eyes of Washington and Cincinnati physicians, cut through the abdominal wall and was known as a laparotomy.

No intimation was given that an operation was in prospect when Taft—one of the most powerful men in Congress—entered New York hospital Saturday night for a "checkup" on his hip ailment.

At one time this morning the temper of the workers was reported so ugly that another march on the government headquarters, such as was attempted three weeks ago, was feared. But such an attempt probably would have turned into a massacre and the workers avoided it.

They simply stopped working periodically throughout the day to belabor their Red bosses with demands. In most places they worked at half-speed between protests, according to West Berliners returning from their jobs late today. In some plants those at the benches sat down virtually all day.

THEIR MAIN DEMANDS: Release of the thousands arrested in the riots of three weeks ago. Lifting of the travel restrictions between East and West Berlin.

At mid-day the Russians yielded on the second point. A peoples police announcement said "free travel by the population between East and West Berlin will be restored, effective tomorrow."

This meant elevated and subway trains would resume running across town, instead of stopping at the sector borders, for the first operation was in prospect when martial law was declared on June 17. It meant the 80,000 crossing the border to work for had-to-get special passes.

Democrats Publish Magazine Rubbing GOP Administration

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The Democratic National committee came out today with a new monthly magazine under an old title. It spread temperate criticism of the Republicans over 112 pages and predicted Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) will soon "let loose again" on the Eisenhower Administration.

In the first issue of the pocket-size "Democratic Digest," the committee adopts an innovation in political propaganda by offering the booklet for public sale at 25 cents per copy.

Its editors—Clayton Fritchey, Sam Brightman, and Philip M. Stern—say 100,000 copies will go on news stands tomorrow. They claim paid subscriptions for about 20,000 more copies.

The four-color cover carries a cartoon depicting the GOP elephant sitting at a desk reading a large book on "How to Balance the Budget," with a smaller book inside on "How to Break 90." A bag of golf clubs hangs on a chair. Below is the title of one of the magazine's articles, "AWOL: Administration Without Leadership."

The magazine, in criticizing the Republicans is, in the words of one of its editors, temperate and humorous instead of strident and abusive. It quotes more from Republicans and Republican newspapers than from Democrats and anti-administration publications.

Mysterious Explosion Rattles Windows in City

BUTLER, July 8.—Everybody heard the explosion which rattled windows here today, but no one could find out where it took place, the city and broke the sound barrier, causing the shock.

The best police could tell the many persons who "phoned was that the explosion seemed to be at the Northern end of the city and no one was injured. They theorized that the blast was caused by two jet planes which flew over the city and broke the sound barrier, causing the shock.

Time to Give People More Information on A-Bomb-Ike

WASHINGTON, July 8.—President Eisenhower said today it's time now to give more information about atomic developments to the American people and allies abroad.

To do this, Eisenhower told a news conference, must mean amending the Atomic Energy Act of 1946 because some of the act's provisions are outmoded.

But the prospect of doing this, he said, is not bright.

At the Capitol where Congress is trying to work its way out of a legislative logjam, Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) acting Republican leader and member of the Joint Senate House Atomic committee, said he doubts any attempt will be made to change the law at this session.

He added he thought the committee "would want to go into the thing very thoroughly and have hearings on specific proposals for changes in the act."

WHILE THERE has been little or no opposition to relaxing the stringent secrecy about atomic bombs and atomic power for the benefit of U.S. citizens and industry, there has been coolness in some quarters to passing certain information to allies.

Some joint committee members have mentioned recent testimony of the director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allan Dulles, who criticized military security in Britain. One of the most damaging leaks in atomic secrecy came through Klaus Fuchs, British nuclear physicist convicted and imprisoned for giving information to Russia.

The question of more information on nuclear weapons and power plants came up at the White House news conference when a reporter asked Eisenhower if he agreed with recent statements by Gordon Dean, former chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, and Dr. Robert J. Oppenheimer, a pioneer in atomic development.

They had urged liberalization of sections in the atomic law which ban disclosure of information they deem necessary for atomic defense planning and for exchange of information with friendly nations.

EISENHOWER said yes, the time has arrived when Americans and allies should be given more information if they are to act intelligently. He explained that because it is known atomic bombs are made, though Britain and Canada were parties in the development of the first A-bomb made by the U.S. and Canada now sells the U.S. uranium or nuclear fission material. The 1946 law banned all exchange of technical information with those nations.

There should be a great pity if Russia started a war because she assumed the United States did not have the power to retaliate to the point of destruction.

There should be greater flexibility to allow the atomic commission to deal with other countries, particularly our allies and our friends who are supplying us with the raw materials we need for our weapons program.

Edward J. Mitchell Weds Norristown Bride During St. John's Service

Edward J. Mitchell, 416½ Lincoln avenue, claimed a Norristown girl as his bride at services held in Norristown Saturday.

Dorothy A. McMichael, his bride, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McMichael, 516 West Lafayette street, Norristown.

Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, also of 416½ Lincoln avenue here.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony in St. John's Episcopal church was the Rev. William N. Langan. The time was 2 p. m.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a traditional white gown made from chantilly lace and nylon tulle. Its fitted bodice was of lace, and her tulle skirts were bouffant.

Seed pearls adorned the tulle headpiece with which the bride anchored her fingertip length veil.

In her hands she carried a white covered Bible topped with a ceremony in St. John's Episcopal church was the Rev. William N. Langan. The time was 2 p. m.

Elizabeth Ann Robbins, Collegeville, a cousin of the bride, acted as the maid of honor.

Pale pink colored her gown of net, made with a strapless bodice and a full net skirt spreading over layers of pink taffeta.

To cover her shoulders she wore a tiny jacket of pink lace to match the bodice of her gown.

Also pink was the large, circular picture hat which adorned her head.

Mixed Summer flowers were arranged to form the old-fashioned bouquet she carried.

Two sisters of the bride, Dolores Jenkins and Katherine M. Scholl, served as the bridesmaids.

They were attired in gowns styled after the honor attendant's frock, but in colors of orchid and ice green respectively.

They also wore picture hats to match their gowns, and carried old-fashioned bouquets.

Junior bridesmaid was another sister of the bride, Janet McMichael.

Her printed gown was made of nylon, with a white background, and was tied at the waist with a sash of pink orchid and ice green shades.

On her head she wore a white hat, and she also carried an old-fashioned arrangement of flowers.

Standing alongside the bride as the best man was his cousin, Gerald Burk of Lansdale.

Ushers were LeRoy Miller and Michael Viola, both brothers-in-law of the groom.

After the ceremony, a reception for the wedding guests was held in the home of the bride's parents.

To greet those attending, the mother of the bride chose a gown of navy blue accented with white accessories. To her shoulder she pinned a corsage of white roses.

For her stint in the receiving line, the mother of the bridegroom selected a pale blue frock, with white accessories for frosting. Like the bride's mother, she sported a white rose corsage.

Later the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in Atlantic City, N. J.

Philadelphia's Fifth Street Pastor Tells WSCS Meeting That 'Missions' to Methodists, Means the Same as 'Help'

"Mission," to a Methodist, is come to the mission. It doesn't mean to help, the Rev. James A. Simons told members of the Women's Society for Christian Service Tuesday in the Sunday school room of St. James Methodist church, Cedarville.

Speaker for the session, the Rev. Simons arrived from the Fifth Street Community center in Philadelphia.

"Anyone," he explained to his audience, "who needs help can be helped."

The Rev. Simons himself, he said, always is on hand to offer a helping hand at Fifth Street.

Lecture concluded the Rev. Simons underlined highlights of his talk with illustrations screened on color slides depicting the work of the center.

Cold Borsch Recipe from Russian Ancestors Plus Her Own Resolution To Discover New Dishes Helps Mrs. John Stolar Rank as a 'Cool Cook'

BY SONIA CIMBALISTA
(Mercury Staff Writer)

As the bells tolled midnight the past December 31, Mrs. John Stolar, 520 Lincoln avenue, made a New Year's resolution to try at least one new recipe a week, no matter what the weather.

Today, after sickness, house decorating, household chores and Summer heat, she has been able to follow her plan without too much trouble.

New dishes, however, are judiciously sprinkled with family favorites and with traditional concoctions passed down by the Stolars' Russian ancestors.

Among the latter, a favorite for the days the thermometer soars is cold borsch, dressed up with sour cream.

Food is an important word in the family, which consists of Mama, Papa Stolar and their three little children, Johnnie Jr., age 6; Andre, age 4, and Lynn, age 2.

"Cool off, treats are our favorite especially with the children, who are playing all through the day," smiled Mrs. Stolar.

"I always have to have a hot cereal for them in the morning, but as the day grows, they want to nibble on something, so I place a tray of cold cubed watermelon, or some other fruit, on the table and they can eat a refresher as they play."

Just a few "little treats" for the family included grated carrots very fine, chilled and served. Cucumbers served with sour cream is enjoyed by the five Stolars.

"One of my very favorite recipes is the one for apple crisp pudding," exclaimed Mrs. Stolar.

She turns 2 quarts of sliced apples into a buttered dish. Then she combines a 1/2 cup of water and a teaspoon of cinnamon and pours over the apples.

She combines 1/4 cup of butter, no margarine, 1/2 cup of sugar and 1/2 cup of flour and mixes until crumbly.

Sprinkling the ingredients over the apples, she bakes in a 350 degree to 375 degree oven or until the top is a golden color.

Before you are ready to serve add ice cream, she concluded.

"I think a body requires vitamins and minerals for good healthy living, so I try to cut out sugar for the children as well as for my husband and myself," Mrs. Stolar theorized.

"Instead, we use a great deal of vegetables and fruits. My husband brings home bananas and the children fly through them just as though you dropped the whole bunch in the water."

The diminutive featured, bright-eyed and jovial Mrs. Stolar keeps a scrap book of recipes and in it is a recipe for fruit cup.

"For a cool refreshing dish, just try this on the children and they'll love it," smiled Mrs. Stolar.

"Take four slices of pineapple, 2 oranges, 1 grapefruit or 1 cup of grapes and add 1/2 cup of sugar. Mix the chopped fruit and cover. Then place it in the refrigerator and chill," she prescribed.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Stolar already was interested in cooking and while visiting her sister in North Carolina she picked up her Southern Ambrosia recipe.

"Take as many oranges as you want," related the peppy housewife, "and cut them into cubes. Get fresh grated coconut and sprinkle them with both coconut oil and powdered sugar."

Both Mrs. Stolar and her husband are members of Holy Trinity Russian Orthodox church, and they favor many dishes which their parents have made in the old country.

Borsch is served in hot and cold weather — hot and steaming in Winter, chilled with a dab of sour cream in it.

After laughing very heartily, Mrs. Stolar relates a tale about a time when she was very upset over the rumpus the children were making.

"I got confused and all I put in the Borsch was water and beet. The rest I forgot to add and when my family turned up their noses I couldn't understand it. Then I tasted it," Mrs. Stolar made a wry face.

Borsch can be served for hot weather for by just adding a bit of sour cream, you get a mellow tasting soup.

To make this dish, Mrs. Stolar washes and scraps some beets. She cuts them as though she were cutting potatoes for French fries.

Then she chops some onion and adds salt, "just as much as you please." After adding the mixture to the beets, she lets it stand for one half hour or an hour.

The boiling of the water may be as much as the amount of soup you want. Usually two quarts of water will equal two bunches of beets.

When the water is boiling add the beets, but don't cover the pot.

Mrs. Stolar waits until the beets are tender and then she adds 1 egg, 2 or 3 tablespoons of flour and brings the mixture to the boiling point, but she doesn't let it boil. She takes it off so that it won't curdle.

Then she adds 2 tablespoons of vinegar and still keeps her mixture uncovered until cold. For reheating later, she covers the soup.

Not only does Mrs. Stolar have to treat her children, but as their playmates gather, she feeds them, treats them too.

"I give them fruit or something and then when my children go to their place they get treated."

"We always have children around the house and in the garden. One year in the Summer we had from 29 to 30 on our lawn."

Escape from hot shopping days comes easy to her. Her husband does all her marketing and as she remarked, "He's getting to be pretty good at it by now." I did the shopping in between children. But right now I have my hands full."

All three children have plump red faces, even though the Winter has been very trying for them.

"My children have had everything from chicken pox to flu," said their mother.

Despite the ills of the Winter, the youngsters are peppy and full of energy.

"Last Sunday was the first time since Winter that our family was able to go to church all together," repeats Mrs. Stolar. "There seemed to be something wrong with one of them every week."

Even though the weather is muggy and the moppets keep running in and out of the house, Mrs. Stolar and her husband currently way I can iron in peace and cool-ers painting their home from top to bottom.

John Stolar Sr. works with the Doehler Jarvis company as a prober best to keep her family cool-duction checker. He works on the and happy.

second shift, therefore Mrs. Stolar has the big meal ready for noon.

"My favorite hobby is my children," giggled Mrs. Stolar.

"I sing to them and read and in the Winter we tell each other stories. They even help me cook. Our most fun comes when we make sugar cookies together," she said.

"I really don't mind the heat yet, maybe as I grow older it will bother me. However, to cool off while ironing, I save the clothes until evening, when the children are in bed and a slight breeze is blowing."

"Then up goes every window, and I open the back door. That Stolar and her husband currently way I can iron in peace and cool-ers painting their home from top to bottom."

Mrs. Stolar may well be labeled a busy little housewife, who tries Doehler Jarvis company as a prober best to keep her family cool-duction checker. He works on the and happy.

HIGH-TEMPERATURE TREATS in the Stolar household, 520 Lincoln avenue, feature fruits and vegetables, stressed health-conscious Mrs. John Stolar, who looks for vitamins as well as cooling qualities in her Summer foods. Above, she starts to carve a fresh, chilled watermelon for her three hungry youngsters. From left, they are Lynn, Johnnie Jr. and Andre. Mrs. Stolar is an avid collector of recipes, and she finds her hobby helps her keep a cool kitchen in the Summer months. In the accompanying story, she describes some of her favorite discoveries, in addition to a traditional recipe for cold borsch (beet soup), handed down from her Russian ancestors. And Mrs. Stolar hopes that her Pottstown area neighbors will, in return, help her expand her menus by describing their pet Summer dishes in The Mercury's 'cool cook' columns.

Indoor Wieners Substitute for Outdoor Hot Dogs as Rain Attends The Joint Social Gathering of Salem and Baltzell EUB Churches

Held at 7:30 p. m., the joint open meeting was staged as a "get acquainted" session for of-ficals and their families.

The gathering was spent singing songs and "just talking," ac-cording to the Rev. John L. Smoyer, pastor of both Evangel-ical United Brethren churches.

Before the rain, the affair was scheduled to be a winner roast, and hot dogs still comprised the major portion of the meal under the church roof.

Those present also discussed the possibilities of planning a Scout program to keep youngsters in each department occupied until the Fall.

AMERICA'S ARCTIC WATCHDOG

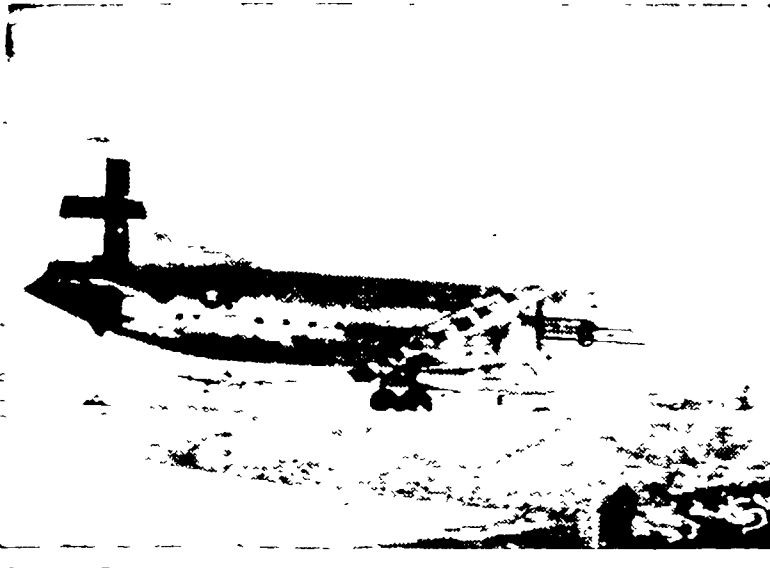

By RICHARD MALKIN
(Written Especially for Central Press and The Mercury)

When the famous explorer, Knud Rasmussen, founded Thule, Greenland, a quarter-century ago, he told the renown polar flyer, Bernt Balchen, that here was one of the likeliest sites for an Arctic air base. Balchen never forgot those words. As the years passed, the darkly developing international events lent weight to them. Balchen began to talk about Thule, but it wasn't until 1950 that he was able to put the Rasmussen idea across to Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter.

What has happened since Finletter gave Thule the green light is another brilliant chapter in the history of American achievement in the face of adversity.

On the northwest coast of the Danish-owned island, separated from the North Pole by about the distance between Boston and Cincinnati, Thule was nothing more than a fearsome, frigid wasteland when the Air Force made its initial survey flights early in 1951. At that time the Danes and Americans were readying a Greenland defense pact in Copenhagen.

IN MARCH, CAME Operation

A mats C-124 transport stands on icy runway at Thule, Greenland.

Blue Jay—a secret air bridge from Westover Air Force base in Massachusetts to Thule, which transformed the star, 400-Eskimo village into one of the most significant engineering miracles.

It began with a few giant transports—Boeing C-97s and Douglas C-54s and C-124s—hauling passengers and cargo on the following route: Westover, to Goose Bay, Labrador; to Sondstrom Air Base on the southwest coast of Greenland; to Thule—a distance of more than 2700 miles.

The airlift built up quickly, funneling into winter-dark Thule an army of surveyors, engineers, and construction workers, and thousands of tons of fuel drums, electric generators, bulldozers, road graders, power shovels, cranes, trucks, jeeps, prefabricated buildings, explosives, and food supplies.

WHEN THE FIRST seaborne convoy carrying 4000 construction workers arrived in midsummer, 3000 airborne workers already were toiling there.

Thule grew. Its face changed day by day. Despite the sub-zero temperatures and raging winds which were a constant threat to the aircraft, winterization of the planes and preventive maintenance kept the lift going. Not a plane landed that didn't have tires with steel-impregnated treads. This was heaven sent on ice.

By mid-1952, Thule was a going concern. The miracle had been worked; magic in the form of a topnotch air base, boasting a two-mile runway and nearly 500 acres of sturdy barracks, warehouses, administration buildings, and storage tanks.

What does this Arctic outpost mean to us?

Twenty-eight hundred miles from Moscow, 1900 miles from Murmansk, Thule is strategically astride the route between Russia's and America's important city centers. By jet—a squadron already is based at Thule—it's less than two hours to the Soviet Arctic base at Franz Josef Land.

WHOLLY APART from cropping up as one of our most important defense bases, Thule looms as an equally valuable civil airport. As a stop it lops off nearly 1500 miles on an airline's San Francisco-Oslo route, as well as on Britain's proposed London-Tokyo run (which presently is via Cairo).

The 2000 round trips and more than 60,000 flying hours logged by the Military Air Transport service have paid off handsomely.

Two Women Feted At Surprise Shower

MONT CLARE—Mrs. Thomas Carns, Bridge and Grace street, Mont Clare, cor. Phone Phoenixville 2737. C. Douglas Hale, delivery. Phone Pottstown 31-1-2.

Mrs. Raymond Welsh and Mrs. Michael Yasko Jr., Mont Clare, were recently feted at a surprise stork shower given by their sisters, Rita and Terry Durachko, at their home in Mont Clare.

During the evening the guests were served a buffet supper on a table decorated with a floral arrangement of red roses from which were streamers leading to miniature baby cradles with storks attached.

The guests of honor received many gifts from those present who included, Mrs. George Durachko, Mrs. David Dascher, Mrs. John Marren, Mrs. Paul Hunsicker, Mrs. Bert Walters, Mrs. John Kuchma, Mrs. Joseph Podbolski, Mrs. Michael Yasko, Mrs. Robert Gooding, Mrs. Edward Nagy, Mrs. Michael Yasko Sr., Mrs. Andrew Tomchick, Mrs. William Brensinger, Mrs. Robert Kerr, Mrs. Andrew Durachko Jr., Mrs. Andrew Durachko Sr., Mrs. Stanley Ludzik, Renie LaBosh, Alice Bargo, Joan Benyo and Terry Benyo.

The first thing most people who first reach America at New York see from a ship's deck is not the Statue of Liberty, but the parachute jump tower at Coney Island.

No Developments Found in Robberies

Police reported "no new developments" in the investigation of two robberies in Pottstown within the past week.

The past Saturday night thieves forced their way through a back window of Woodley's Milk Shake bar on West High street and made off with $85 in merchandise.

They took 40 cartons of cigarettes and 25 pennies.

Then early Tuesday morning, a music-loving thief made off with two clarinets, a gold trumpet, two record players, a portable typewriter and $22 in cash from a Pottstown music studio.

The instruments were taken from the Joseph E. Mack studio, third floor of the St. Clair building, 200 High street.

Furillo's homer—his 11th of the season—came in the fifth with Jackie Robinson on third and Hodges on second. Four Brooklyn runs came in during the inning.

Hodges' homer—his 17th—started a two-run Dodge rally in the fourth. It came with one out and no one on base. Furillo then doubled and Campanella also hit a two-bagger to score Carl.

The first Brooklyn run was scored in the second as Furillo and Campanella hit back-to-back doubles. The eighth Brooklyn tally was by virtue of a walk to Robinson and a Hodges double in the seventh inning.

The Phillies enjoyed a short-lived lead as they scored two runs in the second. Del Ennis led off with a single and Gran Hamner hit his 11th homer of the campaign.

The other two Philadelphia runs were scored in the seventh. Hamner singled as lead off batter. With two out, rookie Ted Kazanski walked and Mel Clark—pinch hitting for Konstanty—tripled to the scoreboard, sending Hamner and Kazanski home.

BAGPIPE

Was looking at TV not long ago and one of the acts was a group of people dressed in kilts and playing the bagpipes. I suppose most everyone is like me in thinking that the bagpipes are a Scottish invention. The bagpipes are often regarded as the national instrument of Scotland, but to my surprise, a Greek friend of mine advised me that it was only Scottish by adoption. Actually it was a musical wind instrument of great antiquity having been used by the ancient Greeks. The country people of Poland, Italy and Southern France still use the bagpipes. The air is pressed into the pipes from the bag by the performer's elbow. The scale is imperfect and the tone harsh. There are never any harsh feelings when you deal with a dependable car dealer. Come in and select one of our fine used cars. You will find all imperfections removed and priced right, too. Convenient terms. New car guarantee on many of our cars.

BOARD OKAYS RESIGNATION OF TWO TEACHERS

Spring City Group Also Elects New Instructor

Spring City school board accepted two teacher resignations and elected one new instructor at its July meeting last night.

The resignations, both given in writing, were from Ruth Dubois, principal of the Elementary Grade school, and Warren R. Filer, High school science teacher.

They were reported by director E. C. Wilfong, chairman of the teachers committee.

The committee proposed for election as elementary principal Harry B. Gorton, Lemoyne, who was formally elected on motion.

Gorton, married and father of two children, was graduated from Lutz High school in 1942. He received his bachelor of science degree in education from Millersville State Teachers college in 1949, master of science degree in social studies from the University of Pennsylvania in 1950 and master of science in elementary administration from Temple university the past February.

HE HOLDS 30 elementary credits toward a doctorate in education. He has taught three years in Lancaster township, Lancaster county, and served one year as teaching principal at Wormleysburg.

Wilfong reported vacancies still exist in the First grade, Third grade (temporary position), Fourth grade and Sixth grade, with very few prospects for these positions at the present time.

Acting on a communication from the Rev. Charles F. Salckeld, representing the four Protestant churches of Spring City, asking for a continuation of the eight year of released time weekday religious education, the board agreed to approve the request.

The board also told the supervising principal to advise the ministers the board would like certain things accomplished toward discipline and responsibilities of the children.

DIRECTORS W. S. Woodward, chairman of property committee, listed work done during the past month.

Supervising Principal Charles H. Wise reported $291 outstanding in tuition. He reported the High school Key club had realized $137 from two dances and another dance by the club has been planned for tomorrow night. Proceeds are for a fund being raised for a new organ.

Wise also reported Mary Ann Simon is in charge of the Elementary school playground, and Chester Hilger directs activities at the High school playgrounds.

Wise was granted permission to attend the superintendent's and supervising principals' conference at State College the last week of July.

REPORT of the treasurer showed a balance of $39,668 in the general account, and $26,796 in the bond redemption account. Bills were ordered paid totaling $38,857.

Permission was granted Spring City Lions club to use part of the High school athletic field July 24 and 25, for a block party.

Pro-Blind Golf Tournament to Mark Highlight in Lions Club Activities

Royersford Lions club will mark one of the highlights of its summer season Wednesday, when the club will stage a Pro-Blind golf tournament over fairways of the Spring-Ford Country club.

Under the sponsorship of the Royersford club, four members of the Middle Atlantic Blind Golf association along with nationally famous pro, George Fazio, and Spring-Ford pro John Kelley will meet in an 18-hole match at 2:30 o'clock. The golfers will be the guests of the club at the regular semi-monthly dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. in the country club hall.

Program committee members announced that the course would be opened for all interested fans who care to follow the golfers during the match. It is expected that two of the local linksmen will team with a twoosome of the blind golfers to form two matches.

Members of the Blind Golf association who will play the nine-hole Spring-Ford course include Bob Alman, former wrestling champion from the University of Pennsylvania; Dr. S. B. Van Wageningen, chairman of the fund committee of the association; Ben Pearlman, termed one of the most improved blind golfers to compete in the monthly tournaments and Art Smith, World War II vet from Oregon.

FAZIO, well known to local sports fans, recently captured the Canadian Open Golf championship and placed fourth in the US Open tournament.

Following the match, Fazio has planned to stage a brief demonstration on driving and various other shots and after the dinner session the program will be climaxed by a discussion by the sightless linksmen. Red McCarthy, a sports editor.
